SOUTH PARIS NEWS.

DONATION DAY FOR HOSPITAL

The Central Maine General Hospital has a deficit to make up each year. Accident and emergency cases have always been received and cared for regardless of where they came from or their ability to pay.

Individuals from the town of "Paris" have frequently made donations to the hospital, but this year has never been a general call for assistance, nor have the donors ever been sufficiently large in number to indicate the appreciation of the community.

Wednesday, Nov. 10th, has been selected as Donation Day for the hospital and the Community Club has agreed to collect vegetables, canned goods and other money on that day. Anyone not solicited may leave their donation, together with their name, at the store of R. K. Butts.

Gilmán H. Penley

Gilmán H. Penley died at his home on the Hebron road early Sunday morning, Nov. 6, after an illness of a week. His age was 69 years. Mr. Penley had for years carried on a machine and repair shop at the place known as "The Old Mill" (Perry) Penley. One brother, John P. Penley, of Norway, survives him. The funeral was held at 2 o'clock, Tuesday.

Mrs. Sarah E. Wise

After a long period of a feeble health, Mrs. Sarah E. Wise died early Sunday morning, Nov. 6, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Clara Doble, on Gothic Street. She was the wife of the late Mr. S. E. Wise, who was born in South Paris about nine years ago and was a resident of this town for many years. She was a devoted mother and a kind and generous friend. The funeral was held at 1:30 Tuesday.

Paris Grange

Paris Grange held an all-day session, Saturday, November 5. There was a rather small attendance. The first degree was worked in the morning. After dinner, the second degree followed by a very interesting program.

A nominating committee, consisting of A. P. Stearns, I. O. Swift and R. S. Gates was appointed. The annual meeting for the election of officers will be December 5, November 19, the third and fourth degree will be worked.

Ida Bates, in a Ford sedan, collided at 2:30 p. m. on the curve at Market Square corner near Association Block. The impact forced the sedan across the sidewalk and against the end of the Block. No one was injured and the cars travelled off under their own power.

The annual fair of the Universalist Church was held Thursday evening in Good Cheer Hall. There was a good sale during the afternoon and a large patronage to the supper. Grandstanding exercises of Binville Grammar School entertained a crowded house in the evening. The parts greatly exaggerated by boys and girls whose names ranged from twenty to fifty-five, were amusing. Miss Emma B. West was soloist with Mrs. Agnes Morton at the piano.

Shaw's Snappy Six played for dances at West Paris, Wednesday night, and Thursday at West Minot. Friday night they are at North Buckfield and Saturday at Bangor. They will play at Hobson's Pavilion for the Old Folks' Ball.

evening. There were a quiet gathering in the afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alton Noves, Green Street. Attended by the children and grandchildren. A birthday cake, decorated with 73 candles, was cut and served with other refreshments. Rev. John Simpson, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, sang "My Mother's Bible" after which a new Bible was presented to Mrs. Frost as a gift from the family. Some time was spent in singing and in sociability.

A letter from Charles A. Woodbury's bookkeeper of Somerville, Mass., says that Charles is able to sit part of the time and is hoping for recovery. Everything is being done for him that is possible. He was stricken last January with a stroke, but he has not yet recovered. He is now in a hospital, but he is not doing well. He is now in a hospital, but he is not doing well. He is now in a hospital, but he is not doing well.

"Spirit of Man in Him"

Bro. L. P. Evans, Editor of the Piscataquis Observer, Dover-Foxcroft, Me., Makes Comments as Follows

W. C. Leavitt: "I don't kick because I care, but I do it because I want to let 'em know I'm alive." The above reminds me of a former citizen of this town, who attended a local muster. He found there some old friends from Bangor (this was many years ago) who had brought liquor and treated him with such effect that he became very noisy and a deputy sheriff took him home. The man's right hand and right foot were deformed. On the way, he emitted some very loud noises and when the deputy tried to quiet him, he said, "Look at that hand! Look at that foot! If I didn't yell, people wouldn't know I had the spirit of a man in me!" And he let out another.

PROBLEMS OF NORWAY

Is Norway High School solving the social problems of Norway?

Is the church solving its problem in Norway?

Is the Community solving its problem in Norway?

Are they co-operating to solve the problems of our youth?

200,000 girls desert home yearly in the United States. Why?

80,000 girls are reported missing yearly in the United States. Why?

35,000 boys turn tramps or criminals

in the United States yearly. Why?

80 per cent of our criminals are under

20 years of age. Why?

30,000 of the girls end in the underworld. Why?

The seven aims and objectives of education are as follows: (1) Sound health (2) Worthy home membership (3)

Mastery of tools, technique and spirit of learning (4) Faithful citizenship (5) Vocational effectiveness (6) Wise use of leisure (7) Ethical character

The above objectives reflect upon the home, the school, the church and the community. The only way to solve the problems of youth is for these four factors to cooperate.

Norway High gives 90 per cent of its students the only education they will over-receive. The others go to college, Normal school, business college, etc. The graduates are proving successful, taking their places in business offices or as citizens. Those who have gone to college have done satisfactory work. During the last five years nineteen students have entered approved colleges. All have done satisfactory work, only one conditional failure has been received. These nineteen students have passed over 90 per cent of their subjects the first time.

Constructive criticism is what we want,

but you cannot justly advise us until you watch our program. Visit our schools and help us solve our problems of the community.

LOST ON THE MUSTER FIELD

Arthur Tucker: "I recall when the late A. J. Nevens came to me. I was a small fellow and was going to a muster in Portland with an older brother.

As the day to go arrived, my brother was sick and I was left alone. I was persistently I was permitted to go if I'd keep with the Norway Military Co. I did so, and had a great time.

The company finally stacked arms and struck out for themselves. I played around and finally came around to where the guns were stacked and the guns were

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

F. W. Gaston, Passaic, N. J., writes:

"Have just been reading your 'snuff' in the Advertiser about the mouse trap and wish to file my approval. I have enjoyed your fishing trips very much and am sorry the season is over. Why didn't you write a good fishing yarn now and then for the comfort of your non-resident subscribers. The Advertiser is a most useful paper to me unless I can find you somewhere in it each week. Also don't forget I am a Weary now and entitled to a word now and then. All are well. Bob is at Andover, Mass., trying to acquire a New England conscience."

He really invites us to write a fish story, which generally means a yarn regarding the fish. We will, however, say during the past season we have caught 151 fish, 12 salmon, 2 togo, 1 bass, and 300 trout. We were very successful. We were taken on a fly. Most of them on feather dusters. Of that number less than 25 have been killed. The fish lost were mostly trout. The fish lost were mostly trout. The fish lost were mostly trout.

Wind and Rain Caused Havoc

Worst Gale in Many Years

The gale that swept over northern New England late Thursday, reached this section of Maine shortly after midnight and left in its wake wrecked telephone lines, uprooted trees, gullied highways and damaged buildings.

Strong winds from the southeast, Thursday evening was preliminary for the main day of the storm. The wind suddenly increased in violence and developed into a furious gale that shook houses, bowled over large trees, kicked off screens from porches, ripped away sheet iron roofing, pelted sign boards and cut up generally.

A heavy downpour of rain driven by the wind worked through crevices and cracks in houses, causing much damage to ceilings and interior furnishings.

Five poles of the Maine Telephone & Telegraph Co. went flat between Fair St. and the exhibition hall on the fair grounds. Two cables hanging level business were uninjured in the crash and communication in the Twin Towns was not interrupted. Several toll lines on the poles were out of commission until the construction crew untangled the mass.

Sheet iron roofing on Tucker Street schoolhouse was lifted and twisted about. The same thing happened at Lester V. Ashton's residence. Many shade trees were broken and battered, leaving the streets cluttered with limbs and twigs.

In some cases, window panes, boxes, barrels, fragments of composition roofing, and screens were blown some feet from their original setting.

Maines caused great damage by washing out roads and swelling the streams almost to freshet height. The wind, however, the village and Elm Hill, over-looked the meadows east of Norway Branch. Much low land in other sections was under water, Friday and Saturday.

The only train service Friday was the way freight that started in the morning from Bethel. Trains carrying mail, express and passengers were held up. One between Bethel and Chubbuck was delayed by a wash-out and trains from Portland were unable to leave the city, therefore were cancelled. Not for many years has a violent rain storm completely cut off a passenger train service in the Grand Trunk line and seldom does a winter blizzard cause many hours delay. Boston papers were not delivered, morning dailies from Lewiston and Portland were delayed several hours behind schedule, but the evening editions were practically on time. No school singing was sounded on the fire alarm and everybody not obliged to face the storm kept indoors.

The storm reached its height about daylight and held on for several hours, diminishing with showers that ceased before night. The wind also gave up the sport and veered westward, bringing perfect weather for Saturday.

Nearby towns suffered heavily, especially those located along the Androscoggin River. This river that drains a large watershed rose rapidly until banks were overtopped and low lands submerged.

At Bethel, the intervals in the Androscoggin valley and vicinity were turned into a veritable lake. The state highway from the depot to the Wm. W. Mason place was under four feet of water. A temporary bridge over the mill bridge was swept away, cutting off Mayville village, Swan's Corner, and Newry from Bethel village. All that district was without lights of electric power while the storm raged. Several families were taken from their homes in boats and a number of horses kept in a barn on Hastings Island were drowned, others were rescued with difficulty. Not in forty-five years has the river gone on a rampage like this.

High water at Locke's Mills caused great damage. Dwellings were submerged and a bridge over the main highway collapsed.

Five inches of rain is reported to have fallen in Berlin, N. H., where flooded conditions existed. Many of the roads were washed away and attempts to prevent a log jam.

Gorham, N. H., water covered the golf course to a depth of three feet and more. Several important bridges were swept away in that section.

The district around Rumford also was hard hit with considerable damage inflicted to the Rumford Falls and Rangeley Lake railroad along Swift River.

The brunt of the storm was felt along the Connecticut valley where towns and cities in Vermont, western Massachusetts and portions of Connecticut suffered heavily. Dams burst, bridges were carried away and buildings submerged or demolished. Red Cross relief and contributions from other sources were sent in to stricken districts, unable to meet this emergency. Press dispatches indicated at least 150 lives were lost and thousands made homeless. Property loss is reckoned in millions.

EAST FRYEBURG

There was a big turn-out at the Hallock hall at the Grange Hall, Monday night. A large number masked. The first prize for the best costume went to Miss Shirley Manchester. The hall was finely decorated with black and orange with a profusion of cats and Jack-o'-lanterns. Music by Rose's orchestra.

A good sum was realized for the school league.

There was a good attendance at the Grange meeting, Friday evening, work in the first and second degrees.

Frank and Walter Sanborn and Mrs. Ada Hamlin attended Pomona at Bridgton, Thursday.

The heavy storm of Friday caused a lot of damage, many houses being flooded. Several feet of the roof of Wilton Warren's barn was blown off. There was a heavy frost on the river with no passing for several days.

F. M. Sanborn was the guest, Sunday, of friends in West Baldwin.

New Building Projects by Summer Visitors

From reports received at the State of Maine Publicity Bureau here from all sections of the state, a great impetus has been given in real estate transactions and new building projects as a result of the past summer tourist season. Although an accurate estimate cannot be given at this time, the figures on hand already run over a million dollars. This includes real estate transfers and new building on a large scale for summer homes, given by visitors here who have decided to make some permanent summer residents. One section where several hundred thousand dollars will be invested is in the York-Kennebunk and Ogunquit district. Another section that has received great impetus since the summer months is Castine.

The number of permanent summer residents has been steadily increasing the past three years as people come to know Maine and her attractions and opportunities better.

This conclusively shows that the summer tourist business cannot be judged by the money left by the tourists during the summer months, but that the tourist creates an all-year industry that brings employment to many and adds many permanent tax payers in the state.

Small farm, also bridges on Abbott Brook at the farms of Sidney Abbott and Roger Thurston, were swept away by the flood. MONEY TALKS

This is an old one, but there are a few million young readers who may well come to it as something new.

A circus was scheduled for the Zoo. Naturally the animals were anxious to see it, but the admission price of one dollar was beyond many of them.

The lamb, of course, walked right in because he always had four quarters handy. The duck, with his bill, had no trouble at all. Even the frog had a green back and proudly hopped to his seat.

But the skunk was ejected. He came with only a cent and a bad one at that.

Line of Demarkation

Brings to the Mind of the Older People the History of the Past

Why should the "Welcome to South Paris—Goodbye, Come Again" sign hang over the road near the Fair Ground at the Rumford village? It is a line of demarkation, it brings to mind when the Paris line was about 100 feet east of Main Street, Norway. The little fight waged by the farmers and the dividing line was beyond the burying ground. The legislative fight continued and the line was moved to its present position. It took more than a half century to reach those acres. In fact, death alone was the healing balm.

I don't question the right to maintain the sign where it is. But I'd have no marker whatever, between the two villages. We are all one village practically, and have been for a long time. It serves no good purpose. It demonstrates that there are no divisional lines between the two places and we come to that banner, the stranger says, "You told me there was no divisional line between the two villages." It puts me in the line, you see! I have to make unnecessary explanation, which could be avoided if the sign was not there.

And again, when I really want to make an impression on the stranger that pretends to be a Southerner, I have to take the party on a back street to get away from that overhead sign. I could be taken in. I wouldn't object to a sign on the corner of Paris Street and the Rumford road. Have the sign the usual way, "Norway-Paris" set in the usual style.

I'd be willing to contribute to such a sign. The cost would not be great and it would answer the purpose and not so jar my nerves as the overhead one. Why do you do it?

Joe Jones won't object. His son, Ed, sells as much furniture coming into Norway as Ray Eastman does going into Paris. Joe has sold as many cigars, tobacco and pipes to Norway people as he has to South Paris people in the past forty years. Am willing to gamble on it. I don't blame Joe for objecting to the sign. He's a few years ago of changing the name of the station to Norway Junction. That was a blow under the belt. The taking down of the sign isn't. See! Why not?

DENMARK

A number of our girls had the pleasure of attending the State Christian Endeavor Conference at Portland Friday and Saturday, October 29 and 30; at the same time organizing the "Girl Reserve" of Denmark, of which Miss Hazel Invalis is leader. There is a branch of the Y. W. C. A. We feel much good will be derived from this. They pronounced a very pleasant trip, even if they did have to walk a few miles at the end of their homecoming, caused by a low gas tank.

Dr. F. B. Lyman, the National President of Christian Endeavor work, spoke upon "What Of Youth" and expressed what he believed in regard to youth and why he believed it. He said about all things we must have faith in our young people and they will live up to higher ideals because there are those who trust in them.

In answering the question, "What Do I Owe Young People?" he said, "First, I owe them my time. All together too much do we neglect them because we think we are too busy to bother. Secondly, we owe them understanding. Try to understand the meaning that is behind their words, look through their eyes. Next, we owe them our confidence, which is most important. And lastly, we owe them work. Give them a task to do." He closed with the poem, "The Triumphant Prince of Peace."

While there, the girls were given the Recognition Service of the Girl Reserves by the Stevens Avenue group. We feel confident that our girls are going to help the community to a great extent. They are to organize this week.
